Another Midnight Robber is Driven Away By Householder.

One burglar discovered in the act of attempting to gain entrance to the Haller House, a hotel at 2205 San Pablo avenue, by lowering himself through a skylight on the roof, was routed and pursued for a distance over housetops and down a fire escape shortly before midnight last night. Another prowler was frightened away from the home of Robert Martland, automobile man, at 1037 Grand avenue, after he had placed a ladder beneath a window preparatory to entering.

Armed with a revolver W. A. Jones, manager of the Haller House, hurried to the roof of the hotel to investigate when he heard strange noises, and discovered the burglar trying to drop through the skylight. Jones pointed his pistol at the man and pulled the trigger several times, but the cartridges failed to explode due to a broken firing pin.

The burglar scrambled to his feet and fled across the roof, snatched a space of several feet in an adjoining housetop and escaped down a fire escape. Jones pursued him for a distance and shouted for assistance. Firemen heard the cries for help, rushed to the scene and took up the chase, but was outdistanced by the burglar.

At Martland's home the householder had been taken from the garage and inclined against the house under the window. The burglar was frightened away before he was seen.

AD. CLUB PLANS CLASS TO STUDY PROMOTION WORK

Hypothetical Silk Mill Will Be Organized and Stock
Sold to Members.

A hypothetical silk industry with $2,000,000 capital stock will be organized, promoted, machinery bought and installed and work begun, all on paper, as a means of giving the members of the Oakland Ad Club a concrete background for study of problems of managing a great industry, at a meeting Thursday evening.

Mrs. Elizabeth MacGibbon, who is promoting the innovation, says that the choice of a silk industry was not made by chance, but that this city is ideally situated for the manufacture of silk.

"We are planning to have a number of silk experts address our stockholders' meetings," says Mrs. MacGibbon. "We believe we can manufacture silk cloth from the raw silk 25 per cent cheaper than is done in the Eastern manufacturing centers."

It is important to note that San Francisco, just across the bay, is the second city in the world in the matter of consumption of silk goods, yielding only to Paris in this regard. People in that city spend $45,000,000 a year for silk goods. The State of California, too, is the second State in the nation in the matter of silk consumption. The place being held by New York State.

These arguments and many more are to be used by the hypothetical company to sell its hypothetical stock to the members of the Ad Club in the next few weeks.

Other members of the committee who will promote this $2,000,000 company are Ben D. Tooley, A. C. James, W. H. Pinkston and A. E. Kinney.

"Holding a Husband" starts in Thursday's TRIBUNE.

HAD BAD COUGH AND PAINS IN HER LUNGS

All well now, gaining weight and strength; does own housework

Last September I took a heavy cold. I kept getting worse until finally I had pain in my chest and cough and all through my lungs. I had a bad cough, could not sleep at night, and was so sore through my lungs that I could hardly stand. I consulted three different doctors and took their medicine, but did not get any better. I suffered death a hundred times. One doctor told me I had a deep cold in the walls of my lungs. Another said I had bronchial trouble. He kept changing my medicine and burned me all over with electricity.

I read in the paper about Milt's Emulsion helping other people, so I thought I would try it. While I have only taken four small bottles, my lungs do not hurt me any more. My cough is gone and I have gained 4 pounds, and I am still gaining. I was able to do the first washing today that I have done since last September. In fact, I am now doing my work with pleasure and feel like I am a dream that I have my health again.—Mrs. Lida E. Schild, 473 Congress St., Toledo, Ohio.

Milt's Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a powerful medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physic. It promotes appetite and quickly builds up the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, helps build flesh and strength, and in a powerful aid in restoring and relieving the effects of wasting diseases.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. ## FORMER STAGE STAR, DESTITUTE, ENDS OWN LIFE

Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson,
Known on Stage as Betsy
Darling, Found Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8.—Belief that Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, 66 years old, once a Broadway musical comedy favorite known as Betsy Darling, and late a charge of San Mateo county, whose charred body was removed from a flaming house in San Bruno yesterday morning by firemen, deliberately planned the burning of her home in order that she might not have to go to a hospital for an operation deemed necessary to save her life, was expressed today by police. Beside the body of Mrs. Thompson, inside a closed door firemen found the blackened body of a pet cat.

The woman's death is the culmination of a long career of mingled triumph and tragedy, and in which wealth, position and popularity were conspicuous. For three years she has lived alone, save for the company of two dogs and two cats. Neighbors considered her eccentric, and those who knew her best say she was proud and brooded over being a public charge. She was helped from time to time by the Catholic Ladies Aid Society of San Francisco.

Mrs. Thompson was the daughter of a plantation owner at Richmond, Va. Early in life she married Charles Darling, a theater magnate of New York and one of the Broadway characters of the day. When he died the widow entered the musical comedy business under the name of Betsy Darling. After Darling's death in 1875, she married the late Fulton G. Berry, Fresno hotel owner, and gave up her stage career. The Berrys were divorced and she became the wife of Thompson more than a year ago. Little is known of him from the data found in the rooms.

Books crammed with newspaper clippings telling of her fame in past years and letters from Edwin Booth and other famous actors were among the effects burned with her home. Today Mrs. Thompson was to have been removed to the Mary's Hope hospital at the instance of Lawrence Boggs of the San Mateo county service.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 8.—Total costs of the world war were declared to be more than $348,000,000,000 by Dr. H. P. Strong, professor of tropical medicine in the Lincoln Medical school, in a lecture here.

This total, he said, includes estimates of the direct costs of the war amounting to $185,000,000,000, the indirect cost aggregating $163,000,000,000, and the cost of lives lost estimated at $178,000,000,000. The actual potential loss of life due to the war was placed at 43,000,000 lives. The great majority of those who died, he said, were males between 22 and 44 years, and as a result the women of France in this age group far outnumbered the men. It will take France several years to recover the loss in population, he declared.

LEARNS NEW WORDS

"Oh, Peggy! Come right here. I've had such a streak of good luck. What do you think?"
"Are you engaged, Alice?"
"No."
"Married?"
"No, better yet. The boss raised me and I'm on my way down to get a Spring suit. Don't you think I'm lucky?"
"Yes, Alice, but I'm still luckier and I didn't get a raise. I'm on my way down to get a hat and a dress as well as a suit."
"What do you mean? Did you rob a bank?"
"No. All I did was learn two new words. Credit and Cherry's."
"Tell me all about it; who, where and what?"
Peggy smiled and passed on the glad tidings. "You? Cherry's? Where? The store for women in at 610 15th street and the store for men and boys at 528 13th street. What? All the pretty things a girl needs to wear. All the latest fashions to make her best beau look still classier; and best of all, you only have to pay a little down and the rest as the payola comes along. Isn't that worth knowing?—Advertisement."

A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain cod-liver oil from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone. And three or four more applications will completely dissolve and destroy every single sign and trace of it. No matter how much dandruff you may have, you will find all itching and stinging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be shiny, lustrous, glossy, silky and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advertisement.

Osfriesland Will Be Used in Test

WASHINGTON Feb 8.—The War Department is experimenting to determine the value of a target against which naval vessels may be tested. Secretary Daniels in a letter to Secretary Baker.

The first test will be conducted within 30 days. Daniels said with conditions similar to those of the captured German battleship Osfriesland, of 10,000 tons, probably will be used.

Admiral R. J. Koon, chief of naval operations, previously told the House Naval Committee that within three months the Navy Department would build a large warship from the wreck of the Osfriesland in an effort to test the theory advanced by Brigadier General Mitchell of the army air service that airplanes had made capital war vessels useless.

Representative Mondell of Wyoming, Republican floor leader, who introduced Admiral Koon's report, urged the committee to authorize expenditures for military establishments, were cut some larger nations would be driven into bankruptcy. He charged that the Navy Department's estimates under Secretary Daniels as a matter of peace loving America of the official announcement of the American Administration accepted.

WHITE PLAGUE IS HEALED BY NEW ANTITOXIN

PARIS Feb 8.—Professor A. Aronson, member of the Institute of the Academy of Medicine, has presented a report to the French Academy of Sciences on the curative treatment of tuberculosis by a new method discovered by the Swiss bacteriologist Henri Spahlinger. The method was first applied in 1917, and 1918 in England, France and Switzerland on patients suffering both from the minor forms of tuberculosis and advanced phthisis.

Since then those patients who were pronounced cured have been kept under observation. All are declared to be alive and in good health.

The treatment takes the form of injections of antitoxins and ferments which are modified according to the condition of the patient.

It aims first at eradicating the acute symptoms then immunizing the patient completing the cure and preventing a relapse.

PERSHING SAYS ARMY'S RECORDS REFUTE CHARGES

OBREGON URGES PROTECTION OF FOREIGN CAPITAL

MEXICO CITY Feb 8.—Recognition of Mexico by the United States was believed by officials here today to hinge on a twenty-minute speech delivered by President Obregon at the opening of Congress.

The president made suggestions for petroleum banking and agrarian legislation three topics accepted here as having a most important bearing on relations with foreign countries, then left to Congress to complete the work.

Obregon was not specific in the petroleum legislation recommendations, but indicated he desired proper safeguards for Mexican capital as well as foreign. The bill is expected to be among the first under consideration.

Fickle Currents Make Liner Voyages on 'Ocean Of Air' Risky, Says Expert

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The "ocean of air" which followers of aviation believe some day will be filled with great air liners plying their way from city to city on regular schedules, but be studied from a meteorological standpoint and the whims and fancies of the elements must be reduced to a fairly understood basis before the dream of world wide commercial aviation can become a reality, according to C. L. F. Mearns, government meteorologist here.

Mearns in a paper discussing the effect of air conditions on commercial aviation says that meteorological conditions of the aerial routes

8000 DIAMOND CUTTERS IDLE AS DEMAND LAGS

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 8.—Nearly 8000 of the 10,000 members of the diamond workers' union here are idle. Experts in precious stones in this city and in Antwerp say that the market for diamonds has become a dreary one in the market although prices are being maintained.

through which the air liners of the future would travel, Mr. Mearns declares that before big commercial aviation companies can operate on a large scale, great masses of data on all conditions at all times of the year in all places and under all circumstances must be gathered. He suggests placing consulting meteorologists on the staffs of all aviation companies, these men to study the air conditions and advise the pilot as to the best route to take and what route a plane should take from one city to another.

ALL CONDITIONS
Air conditions are so changeable, Mr. Mearns says, that a plane traveling between the same two points might have to take a different route almost every day in order to make the trip with the least danger. Also a plane flying from New York to Chicago must find a certain route the best while one traveling from Chicago to New York on the same day might find an entirely different route more favorable.

Some of the things which airplane dispatchers or traffic managers on aerial commercial lines will have to consider, he says, are the speed and direction of the wind in the area to be traversed, the frequency of low clouds and fog, the frequency and intensity of thunderstorms, the vertical temperature distribution, the normal diurnal precipitation at flying fields and the effect of atmospheric pressure on aerial instruments, particularly the altimeter.

The changing conditions in the air make it impossible to gather the necessary information in a single pathing flight over the route, he continues, but by gathering data in numerous flights at all times of the year and under all circumstances, a system of data could be developed which would aid greatly in dispatching planes over aerial routes.

VIOLATIONS IN FLIGHTS
Mearns discusses the various meteorological factors in aviation in the following manner:

Wind—It is necessary in commercial aviation to take advantage of any conditions which will aid in economy of time or fuel or will be conducive to greater safety. The pilot, then, must determine the speed and direction of the prevailing winds over the proposed route. These winds should be determined, not at the surface alone, but to as great altitudes in the air as possible. It is likely that certain elevations will, in the long run, be more favorable.

Cloudiness and fog—The influence of the lower clouds and fog upon flying is very great. As a rule, it is essential to retain sight of the earth. When there are low clouds and fog, however, to keep in sight of the earth obviously is a hazardous proposition.

Thunderstorms—It is true that usually the thunderstorms are essentially a local phenomenon. But the frequency of occurrence of thunderstorms along a given route is a thing that it is vitally important to know.

Temperature—The knowledge of mean temperature over a route is important, not only because of the influence of the temperature factor in the heating of the engine, but also because of the influence of the temperature factor in the heating of the cabin of the plane.

IS YOUR STOMACH UPSET?

Guard Your Teeth If You Value Your Health

"Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested food? Then look to your teeth," said Dr. R. C. Anderson, the dentist with offices at 1225 Broadway, "have your teeth properly taken care of now, before their condition becomes more serious." Dr. Anderson seated in his offices over the Owl Drug store went on to explain that "the teeth are the guardian of the entire digestive system," he said, "and a single missing back tooth may disturb the whole digestive tract. Where teeth are missing the food that is taken into the mouth cannot be properly masticated or broken up, and the saliva (a secret fluid supplied by glands in the mouth) cannot act upon the food, making it impossible for the digestive juices of the stomach to function their work properly. As a result, fermentation begins and at once stomach troubles, loss of appetite, headaches and various other ills, which sooner or later become more and more complicated."

"The X-ray Radiograph is used in our offices in every case, and often reveals caries and abscessed teeth which cause pneumonia, neuritis pains in the joints, etc. If brought to our attention a little sooner, could have been partly or entirely avoided. If you have had teeth in your mouth have them extracted at once. We have had twenty-five years experience in up-to-date dental methods and assure you of painless and efficient treatment of your teeth at prices that you will be willing to pay if you come here."—Advertisement.

CLERICS ROW WITH JUDGE LINDSEY ON MERITS OF FILMS

Jurist in Defending Movies is Accused of Insulting Church; Apologizes.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 8.—(By Associated Press)—Charges that Judge B. Lindsey of the juvenile court had insulted the city's clergymen in a defense of the Sunday movies in an address before them and a statement from one of the ministers that the judge ought to go to jail on a recent contempt charge abruptly ended a meeting of the Denver Ministerial Alliance requested in a public apology by Judge Lindsey.

The meeting was called for the discussion of movie censorship and repeal of the Sunday closing law for theaters and their assessments. Several theatrical managers had preceded Judge Lindsey. After the judge concluded he proposed to answer questions.

"Judge, would you say that if a child spent two hours in a picture show on Sunday that he would not be tempted to crime before entering the show or after it was over?" a clergyman asked.

LINDSEY ON RAMPAGE
"I have been on the bench for twenty-one years—twenty-one years, yes, sir," replied Judge Lindsey, "and I am here today to tell you ministers that I have never had a dozen boys come before me for delinquency caused directly or indirectly from motion pictures. I have had twice as many cases where children who have been attending church and Sunday-school just before they committed their offenses. I have known of the most heinous form of offenses to be committed right on the church floor."

Chairman T. G. Hills sprang to his feet. "We have given you the courtesy of the floor, Judge Lindsey, and you have insulted us. You were not invited here to insult the ministry," he said.

JURIST IN HOT WATER
Rev. Robert T. Caldwell, pastor of Mainview Presbyterian Church, rose. "If there is a newspaper reporter present," he said, "I want to go on record as saying that Philip Vanicore (district attorney) was absolutely right when he said Judge Lindsey ought to go to jail."

In his statement Judge Lindsey said that it was never "my intention to say there was more crime found in the churches than in the motion picture." He admitted the statement regarding Sunday movies.

"I was then asked a question," the statement continues. "I was asked in both my discussion and answer, since the watch was being kept on me. What I tried to say was that in my twenty years of experience in the juvenile court, I did not recall a half dozen cases of crime among children that could be directly traced to the influence of a picture at a movie."

LINDSEY EXPLAINS
Then I said that I had known of cases right in the church or Sunday-school where certain evil happened, for example, that boys had robbed the collection box. But I did not mean to say a thing that I never dreamed or intended to say, that is that there is more crime found in the churches than in the motion picture. If the effect of my remarks was to justify such a conclusion, it was not intended, and I apologize to the chairman if such has been the effect."

War Upon Insects Is Planned in Bill

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 8.—The State of California may reach to far distant lands for bugs that will make a successful war on insect enemies of horticultural and agricultural crops, and Senator F. S. Arduengo, of Fresno, has a bill pending that would appropriate $10,000 to be spent through the department of agriculture in sending an expert entomologist to "South Africa, southern Europe or such countries as may be deemed necessary to collect and import into this state beneficial and predaceous insects for use in the control of the black scale, red scale and other insects.

MEET AFTER TWENTY YEARS

"Well, well; how are you my dear friend? How well you're looking." The two men met on the street corner. "And what a fine looking little son you have."

"Wrong again, Tom, that's my grandson," quoth the proud man. "Why, Rob, judging from your appearance you don't look old enough to play the part. Have you found the fountain of youth? I'm younger than you and yet I look ten years older. Let me in on your little secret."

"Well, clothes makes the man, and 'herp' makes the clothes. Their things have that youthful, classy air, and I'll bet you can't guess how much I paid for this suit."

"Well, it looks every cent of $80." "No, Tom; here's the low-down on it. It only cost $45, though they have been selling them for $65, and I paid only a small part of that down. It's an up-to-date installment house. I got all the little fellow's clothes there, too, on just those terms."

"This interests me strangely, Rob. Out with the name of it." "Why, Cherry's. They have a store for men and boys at 1212 14th street, and a store for women at 518 13th street. No long as they keep those stores I'll keep my youth—Advertisement."

BAKERSFIELD HAS PROTEST AGAINST RAILROAD BODY

Mayor of Oil City Declares Water Regulation Not Fair to People.

FRESNO, Feb. 8.—No complaint from the oil district appeared at the morning session of the legislative committee investigating the procedure and policies of the Railroad Commission. The committee made the trip here today and presented a half dozen protests.

Directed by formal resolution of the city council, J. P. Simpson, Fresno city attorney, expressed confidence in the fairness of the Railroad Commission's actions and urged that no recommendation be made that would result in curtailing the commission's power.

F. M. Hill, manager of the Fresno Traffic Association, who said he represented the oil district, met with the committee and expressed his opposition to any move to hinder the work of the board in regulating public utilities.

Hill said the commission had ordered the city of Bakersfield to pay $440 for establishing a water regulating and had further compelled the city to maintain it.

After a country-wide study of the problem, H. C. Dyer, the commission's power administrator, said it had been found that the modern oil district was to concentrate traffic on a few grade crossings. Courts and public regulatory bodies generally have adopted the policy of charging the cost of establishing crossings to cities or other applicants, he said.

On the theory that this would cause a closer check on the necessity of such crossings, the commission touched upon gas and water rates also. He said he would take the matter up further at the Bakersfield hearing of the committee February 10.

"What do you mean by that?" Hill asked. "We don't know where we are at," Hillman replied. He referred to a 25 cent charge for water that he said was paid to persons owning automobiles.

C. H. Loveland, the committee's hydraulic engineer, replied that the people of Bakersfield don't like meters and that it was found that the cost of installing them on existing facilities for using water. He said Hillman's complaint was directed to a charge for an automobile at his home when he contended the city should be charged.

City Attorney Simpson said he had but one suggestion to make regarding the commission's operation, that the board's financial and engineering staffs were not large enough to fully check the data submitted by public service corporations in some cases. Confusion had politics and much litigation would result, he predicted.

He said the rate fixing authority was transferred from the commission to the municipalities as proposed in a constitutional amendment pending before the Legislature.

Kern County Law is Held Up as Model
SAN JOSE, Feb. 8.—In an effort to have the sheriff's office back up federal officers in the enforcement of the Volstead act, the Civic League has written to the state attorney for a copy of an enforcement ordinance adopted in Kern county and which, it is stated, has been declared constitutional by the federal courts.

Upon receipt of the ordinance the league will ask for its adoption by the Board of Supervisors of Santa Clara county. In explaining their attitude, the members of the league declared they were in favor of the enforcement of the Volstead act to the extent of suppressing commercial traffic in liquor, but they do not go so far as to advocate the invasion of private homes in quest of it.

Contra Costa Women To Meet At Richmond

Terminal Lease Lived Up To, Declares Fred D. Parr

Asserting that the spirit of the Parr Terminal lease has been lived up to, Fred D. Parr, president of the Terminal Company, today issued a general reply to the allegations that the Parr lease was a poor business for the people of Oakland.

Parr makes the point that the Parr lease was intended to bring all things to bring water from business to Oakland from the city viewpoint. Parr says the object was to break ground and stimulate activity on a dormant bay shore. This has been done, he says. Further, the city has been paid any money directly from the terminal lease or not.

Parr says his company was the pioneer in the bay area. The result of the Parr lease was the result of the planer will to bring ocean going commerce to Oakland.

In addition to this, Parr says his company has made $400,000 worth of permanent investments which will remain in the city of Oakland when the lease expires.

Parr's full statement is as follows: Commissioner Soderberg, in his attack upon the Parr Terminal Company, has made the point that it was clearly understood and so represented in all parts of the time the lease was made to the Parr Corporation that the city of Oakland would not receive and did not expect any direct returns in connection with this terminal lease.

Development of the bay area, which would revert to the City of Oakland at the expiration of our lease, but that the city, in the event of the expiration of our lease, would be derived by the City of Oakland from the increase in commerce and manufacturing that would come to the City of Oakland as the direct result of the lease.

Shipping facilities, which would take care of the importing and exporting which was bound to come to this city if proper terminal facilities were provided so that the city would be able to make Oakland a regular port of call.

$500,000 INVESTED
We have already invested some $500,000 at a cost of $400,000 of which is in permanent improvements which revert to the City of Oakland and this is more than the total amount of our fixed obligations as at the time the Parr McCormick Steamship Line but notwithstanding the above expenditures we are obligated under the lease to a $75,000 obligation to build a warehouse and a tentative obligation of $25,000 to build a cost of $100,000 obligation on Parcel No. 2. There still remains under our lease the obligation to construct coal bunkers and facilities for the storage of coal.

We are determined to develop this project on a business basis and we have no apology to make for the things we have done. We have no apology to make for the things we have done. We have no apology to make for the things we have done.

CIVIL SERVICE RELIEF FUND IS UP TO COUNCIL

Charter Amendment Desired; Will Be Taken Up At Saturday Meeting.

SAN JOSE, Feb. 8.—Speaking in behalf of the civil service employees, Attorney William A. Foley asked the city council in session last night to include on the ballot at the approaching election a charter amendment providing for a civil service relief fund. The proposition was submitted in detail and was largely copied from similar relief and pension funds for various other coast cities.

The fund would be created principally by withholding one per cent monthly from the salary of each employee affected. "We expect that the fund will prove self-sustaining," said Foley in explaining the measure to the council. "But in the event it would not the deficiency would be covered for in the annual city budget."

The council voted to take the matter up at a special meeting Saturday afternoon when the proposed charter amendment will be discussed. The council also voted to take the matter up at a special meeting Saturday afternoon when the proposed charter amendment will be discussed.

It isn't what you wear, half socks, low necks, but how you wear 'em that counts. There is a lot of fuss about clothes nowadays, but there always has been, and probably always will be. Every generation refers to the good sense of the mothers, rather than the daughters, and the mothers' fashioning is an ideal. But the old-fashioned mother was a very "new-fashioned" girl in her time! Age has softened the styles and the criticism which still faced until now "mother" is a regular heroine. ### Why I Wrote a Play for May Robson

By Alan Dale

Between ourselves, I first wanted to write a play for May Robson when I saw her playing those gorgeous, unforgettable types at the Lyceum and Empire Theaters. "Nobodies," "Lady Hamilton," "Liberty Hall," "Bohemian," "The Conquerors" and goodness knows how many other plays inspired me to imagine play-writing for May Robson and girls. There was a funny woman, not afraid to evoke laughter. There was an artist, resourceful and many-sided. I used to think up characters for her and give her whatever I could. I was daily grind, it was impossible to concentrate, and my dream failed to materialize itself. Then one day, a summer ago, I met May Robson in the country, and she said to me, "Just like that, 'Why don't you write me a play.'" I looked at her in amazement. I was older, more sophisticated than I used to be. Moreover I had written a play in which I had been accused of being very naughty, indeed—quite unjust. I think, though that is neither here nor there. I told Miss Robson that she was the pink of propriety, and she said, "You are a 'sense of being otherwise.'" You can write me the play I want," she said. "You know me. You know that I simply wouldn't have an illegitimate child in the second act." That was meant for comedy. Dear May Robson she was trying to put me at my ease—to make me smile. Nobody could ever associate any sex problem with this delightfully human, domesticated, artistic personality. I felt that I could never do her justice. The simple play is the most difficult play in the world to write. The play of character, which she suggested, called for tremendous effort. But she persisted—and once again, found things were happier when no presents had been given.

Denny M—You've got to have a strong enough will to break the smoking habit. I believe there are cures recommended, but you don't want them. You want to PROVE TO YOURSELF THAT YOU CAN DO IT. You can't meet the big issues of life and love and conquer them unless you are strong enough to conquer yourself first. You try hard enough and you can succeed.

Billie—I couldn't answer your not on the night you wished as I take those letters as they come. It's "correct" for a boy to ask if he may call, but I've an idea that lots of girls do the asking first. Ask the librarian for the kind of book you want and I know she can recommend one.

Bully and Molly—You two children have been reading the most romantic "mush" sentimental novels you could find and have absorbed all the love themes—if you haven't done that, what else you?

It won't do any good for me to tell you to come down to earth and be sensible. You are not a love sick child when your head is in the clouds—and your feet on the dance floor. But if I tell you that boys don't like living up to the romantic ideals you (mothers) have created, could you come down to earth and treat the boys as humans instead of soulful heroes, and see how it works.

Famous Wits of History

How William Pitt Vanquished Erskine Without a Word.

We are sometimes perplexed and saddened, as well as ashamed, by revelations of the use of money in elections. But we should remember—or learn if we do not know—that money was commonly employed in other days and in other countries. In the dim days where history begins and tradition only remains, we still may find evidence of its use of cash or its equivalent to bribe voters. England, for instance, has been wracked by scandals at various times. One glaring episode during the time of William Pitt—who lived from 1759-1806—was not without its element of humor.

A by-election was pending in Yorkshire. George W. Russell tells us, and Pitt was put in a peculiar visit to the famous Mrs. B., who was one of the Whig queens of her day, therefore on the side of the opposing party. To please her, Pitt said:

"Well, the election is a right for us. Ten thousand guineas—about $50,000—for the use of our side, go down to Yorkshire by a sure hand." "This devil they do!" Mrs. B. frowned. And then smiled.

That night the bearer of the money was stopped by a highwayman on the Great North road. The ten thousand guineas were used to procure the return of the Whig candidate.

Although Pitt was defeated in this instance by the swift thinking of a woman and the daring of political opponents, his was one of the ablest of English minds in his day. Besides, he himself, had a comprehensive view of an appreciation of wit in action, as is demonstrated in the way he treated the grasping aspirations of Sir John Sinclair.

Sinclair had induced Pitt to constitute a board of agriculture and to make him the president. Having enjoyed his office for a few years, Sinclair desired to be promoted in the social scale, so he wrote to the prime minister:

"Dear Mr. Pitt," he said, "don't you think the president of the board of agriculture should be a peer?"

"Dear Sir John Sinclair," Pitt replied, "I entirely agree with you. I have therefore appointed Lord Somersville to succeed you as president of the board of agriculture."

Michael MacDonagh tells us that for days Sir John Sinclair went about wringing his hands and exclaiming:

"Dear me! Dear me! It must be a willful misunderstanding!"

But Pitt's wit was not always demonstrated in words. He knew the biting force of silence, and the deadly thrust of action without words. On the night of Erskine's first speech in opposition to Pitt, the prime minister, evidently intending to reply, prepared to catch the argument of his formidable opponent. He wrote a word or two, Erskine proceeded, but with every additional sentence Pitt's attention to the paper relaxed. The look became more careless, and he obviously began to think into his less and less worthy of his attention.

Finally, when every eye in the house of parliament was fixed upon him, Pitt smiled contemptuously, took the pen through the paper and flung them on the floor. Erskine never recovered from this expression of disdain. His voice faltered and he struggled to finish his speech. "I can't think into his head," he said, "the price of a wife is eight rows instead of four!"

Many American business concerns, chief among which are dairy produce companies, provide for the maintenance of from six to twenty cats as a protective organization. These cats are considered a necessary part of the operating expenses, and it is said that they save thousands of dollars yearly from destruction by rats and mice.

SONGS of FRANK L. STANTON

Sing Thou Thy Song

Dear heart, life is not long. Say thou thy word, and sing thy sweetest song. Ere the dim night shall close, drink thou the light and reap the love's harvest. And dream not of the sorrow and the wrong. Dear heart, life is not long.

There is little philosophy in growing about the weather," says a hillside exchange. "This old world, take it first and last, has about the best weather of any world that we were ever in."

BEAUTY TALKS by LUCRETIA BORI

From one of my readers I have received a long letter with several questions pertaining to beauty. As they are questions in which many women are vitally interested, I shall reply to some of them in this article.

The use of rouge, or face powder, unless care is taken to see that it is thoroughly removed before you retire, is often responsible for enlarged pores. If you continually dab powder on your nose you will eventually close up the pores which evade impurities. Such matter will then strive for an outlet, and the edges of the pores having least resistance will offer the next best medium for its escape. Thus, the more powder you use the greater will be the tendency toward enlarged pores. The tendency toward enlarged pores is made from the following:

Hot and ... 1 dram
Distilled with hazel, 1 ounce

Apply a little of this mixture with some absorbent cotton or a piece of old linen. It is well, also, before retiring to bathe your face in tepid water in which a pinch of borax has been dissolved.

If you must use powder on your face you should always put it on after you have rubbed on a thin layer of cold cream.

Even if you go to work early in the morning that is no reason why you should powder your face instead of washing it. Such a habit, while it keeps the skin, also shows a lack of cleanliness. To splash your face with cold water in the morning does not take a minute, and you can wipe it on a soft towel in as short a time. You need not be afraid that your skin will chafe if you use this plan. I would not, of course, advocate hot water in the morning, as this opens the pores of your skin.

Remember, while a liberal use of water helps to keep the skin long and young, powder tends to give it an "old look," and when it is used instead of water the practice is one that no nice woman would cultivate. For an emergency—as when traveling, or when rushing your own face you may be content with a dusting of powder, but as a daily practice avoid it if you would have a lovely skin when you reach threescore years and ten.

As evidence of the increased cost of living on the borders of Uganda and the Congo, Lord Dewart says that, whereas a wife cost four spearsheads in pre-war days, she now costs eight spearsheads. In the coffee districts the price of a wife is eight rows instead of four!

Many American business concerns, chief among which are dairy produce companies, provide for the maintenance of from six to twenty cats as a protective organization. These cats are considered a necessary part of the operating expenses, and it is said that they save thousands of dollars yearly from destruction by rats and mice.

Letters of Tessie Joe

DEAR TESSIE:

The "cigars" you sent arrived in good condition, which is a fine example of what's known as "the irony of fate," because if they'd been real cigars they'd probably have arrived all smashed up with nothing left intact but the aroma. The "cigars" you sent me, on the other hand, retain everything they ever had, including their "aroma."

I left six of them at my place this morning instead of a tip for the waiter. He was one of those waiters that brush somebody else's crumbs into your lap and then lean over you, chummy like, to help you read the menu card, and I didn't like the bird, and this morning I told him I didn't want to eat anything and would please lean off. And then to prove to him beyond a doubt that I didn't think much of him I left him six of those "cigars." He must have been a desperate man, Tessie. He must have smoked at least two of them, for at dinner time he didn't show up at all. Believe me, Tessie, I felt like a murderer. But there are two cases where murder is excusable, first, to put a human being out of his misery and second to prevent him from putting other people in misery, and I guess that last clause lets me out with an alibi.

You can take the foregoing as a mild hint that you err on the side of "cigars" as an aid to economy, even if, as you state, they only cost you three cents per "cigar." If the price of illuminating gas went down to five cents a half mile, would you advise the world to commit suicide with it?

I see Mary Garden has been appointed director and general temperance chair of the Chicago Green Open Camp. It seems that the only profession left where woman's dainty touch hasn't made itself felt is the profession where it's needed most—the profession of baggage and parcel post handling. When that day comes maybe it will be possible to receive a pie in the mails with its features still distinguishable. Affectionately, JOE.

Uncle Wiggly Stories

UNCLE WIGGLY AND CURLY'S SLIDE

Uncle Wiggly longed for the nice bunny rabbit gentleman, who was hopping along over the fields and through the woods, one cold, wintry day, when, all of a sudden, he came to the house where Curly and Flopsy by Twinstail, the piggy boys, lived.

Down he came, ker-bunko-bunk!

And after helping to carry about five pails Mr. Longears was quite warm, and his pink nose was rosy.

"There!" grunted Curly, when the pail of water had been emptied on the slide, which was partly on a little hill.

"It won't take long to freeze!" spoke Uncle Wiggly, blowing his warm breath on his cold paws.

"Oh, it's fun, Uncle Wiggly! Try it!" shouted Curly, as he raced toward the top again.

Where Is the "Deficit"?

"No appropriation should be considered where the need is not urgent."

The people voted, in November, additional State costs totaling $18,000,000.

Governor Stephens in his message to the 1921 legislature declares: "...it is because of this voluntary action of the people themselves that the financial difficulties referred to have arisen."

Let Us Consider the Facts

State officials estimate our income for the next two years at	$67,000,000
Charge up against this the 1919-1921 budget, which was	$47,000,000
and add the $18,000,000 voted by the people for the next two years. The total is	65,000,000
We still would have left in the treasury	$ 2,000,000

- Two Million dollars left, after paying every cent the people of California ever voted to pay.
- Two Million dollars left, after paying for every State expense at the rate we had to pay when costs were higher than they will be again for many years.
- Two Million dollars left, after re-appropriating in full for the vast burden of "unnecessary duplications and unnecessary waste" which Governor Stephens admits now exists in the State government.
- Two Million dollars left, after we Californians spend for our State government twice as much as the average citizen of other states.

Who Wants This Money?

Yet Governor Stephens declares "it is because of the voluntary action of the people themselves that the financial difficulties referred to have arisen."

Governor Stephens goes further. He goes $15,000,000 further.

After we have paid every dollar that we paid in 1919-21, and after we have paid every dollar we voted to pay at the November elections—after we have provided a surplus of $2,000,000 for emergencies, Governor Stephens calls for $15,000,000 more.

Other states are economizing. Illinois in one year has reduced her governmental costs $2,500,000.

Yet California State officials call upon the people for $15,000,000 above all amounts previously spent or now authorized.

Already California is spending vastly more than her sister states which are now reducing their budgets. The per capita government costs for actual running expenses (as distinct from interest and new investments) are shown by the 1919 U. S. census report to be as follows:

Average for all states	$5.16
Illinois	3.48
California	7.76

These Things Are True

The people have created no deficit, and there is no deficit.

The extra $15,000,000 now demanded by state officials is over and above all appropriations ever made in the past and all new expenses authorized by the people. No increase of any tax rate is necessary.

Ask your legislator to demand that the state live within its income.

CIRCUIT RIDERS TO BE HONORED BY OREGON MAN

Son of Preacher to Erect Big Monument to Sturdy Pioneers.

POPULAND, Ore., Feb. 8.—Pioneer circuit riders, who were important in spreading civilization in the Northwest, are to be commemorated in Oregon by an equestrian statue of a rider on a horse, which is to be placed in the State Capitol. The statue will represent the pioneer type of minister who served the people, fully attired in the Pacific Northwest. Booth's father, Robert Booth, was one of the pioneer circuit riders of the Northwest. He died at his home in 1917, aged 97 years.

His many years his father rode up and down the state enduring hardships and trying dangers. Booth said recently there is scarcely a region in Western Oregon that he has not ridden when bridges were unknown, because of my memories of him and of the similar devotion to duty on duty displayed by other circuit riders I have collected this tribute.

The model of the statue depicts the circuit rider on his rugged plodding horse, wind blowing at his cloak, slouch hat above the unshorn hair and Bible in hand upon the saddle bow.

Governor Ben W. Olcott has been asked to name a committee to select a site for the statue. It probably will be given a place on the Capitol grounds at Salem. The statue will be completed within two years.

Commercial Planes Gain in Favor

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—A total of 11,154 passengers flew 3,126,500 miles in commercial airplanes during the last twelve months without the loss of a single life. The Manufacturers Aircraft Association is announcing these figures today. These figures are based on the performance of 425 planes, and it is believed that the number of passengers and the miles flown would be doubled if the figures of the 1920 commercial airplanes operating in this country were obtainable.

In the absence of any Federal system of registration, air laws and government methods for tabulating the ownership and performance of aircraft, it has been found difficult to trace the total number. The association stated the totals are based on questionnaires distributed by the association but due to the inherent nature of much of the flying it has been difficult to trace and record more than half of these. This one-half by 87 companies or individuals are permanently located in all parts of the United States.

Much of the mileage was made on short flights of 10 to 15 miles for which an average fee of $12.50 was charged. An increasing demand for aerial transportation between the cities has been noted. The average charge for this service being 65 cents a mile. On practically all inter-city flights baggage or freight was carried. The quantity limited only by the capacity of the aircraft business, a record of 41,170 pounds.

There were accidents and forced landings, but according to the signed reports from the 87 companies in the 3,126,500 miles flown, not a single life was lost. There were 222 forced landings and 88 accidents. There have been fatal accidents in other instances but they occurred in the course of stunt flying, not in the course of ordinary commercial flying. In fact, the record is so good that it is almost incredible that such a record has been taken.

John D. Says He's Anxious To Meet President-Elect

By RAYMOND CHAPPLER United Press Staff Correspondent Copyright 1921 by the United Press

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 8.—John D. Rockefeller today told me he would like to meet President-elect Harding. He expressed great interest in the personality and in the travels of the new President.

Is Mr. Harding here? Rockefeller asked me inquiringly. I told him that I was told that he was one of the newsmen men with the President-elect's party.

Being told that Harding probably would arrive later, Rockefeller said: I hope to see him. I have never met Mr. Harding.

There was a chance that Rockefeller and Senator Harding would meet on the golf links here today although no arrangements were made for the President-elect to call on the oil king.

I found Rockefeller near the modest cottage in which he lives in seclusion at this little seaside colony. He was just returning from a motor walk with a dog that was almost spry. His shoulders were stooped by the weight of 80 years but his eyes gleamed bright and penetrating. His ready and genial conversation revealed an active and alert mind.

He wore a dark frock coat, a straw hat and carried a gold-headed cane under his arm. He didn't lean on it. In fact, he seldom touched it to the ground but used it more like a swagger stick. There was a gray silk muffler beneath his coat and he wore

I loved I had a boy in service. In fact I have had visions of him in uniform and have suffered terribly knowing that he was being abused. MOTHER PAINS

The boy knocked on my door last night. I saw that he was selling a tin of soap. There was another older man with him and I told them I did not want any more work done. Then I came to be something between me and that boy and we chatted for a short time. He spoke of his mother and said if I had a picture of her I might like her. I don't know where she is. I can't remember where I lived before the war. I told him I had lost a son and asked him what his first name was. He said Charles. That was enough.
